88-91

Aloxe-Corton "Domaine Latour"

There is a whiff of oak lurking in the background of the earthier aromas of cassis and dark berry fruit coulis. There is both good energy and an attractive texture to the sappy medium-bodied flavors that flash very good length on the finale. This is very Aloxe in character and offers solid quality. 2028+

90-92

Beaune "Vignes Franches" 1er Cru

Here there are hints of menthol and wood surrounds the spicy aromas of poached plum, violet and exotic tea. The suave, mouth coating and delicious middle weight flavors culminate in a somber, serious and slightly warm finale. This should be quite good if allowed at least a few years of bottle aging. 2028+

92

Chambertin "Cuvee Heritiers Latour" Grand Cru

There is again excellent volume to the mouth coating and powerful larger-scaled flavors that exude both hints of minerality and bitter pit fruit on the lingering, focused and balanced finale. This firmly structured effort will need to add depth over time, but the underlying material appears up to the task. 2032+

90

Chambolle-Musigny "Les Charmes"

Background hints of wood and menthol can be found on the ripe and nicely fresh aromas of poached plum, black cherry and violet. The round, velvety and quite supple medium weight flavors immediately tighten up on the youthfully and sneaky long finale. This needs to add depth with mid-term cellaring though the underlying material appears to be up to the take. 2028+

90-92

Chateau Corton Grancey Grand Cru

Here there is moderately generous wood to be found on the earthier and more savage-inflected aromas of black cherry liqueur and discreet floral wisps. There is better energy and good delineation on the only slightly more concentrated flavors that do deliver impressive length on the balanced and firm finale where a similar hint of bitter pit fruit emerges. 2032+

93

Clos de Vougeot Grand Cru

There is good verve and freshness to the round, delicious and tautly muscular flavors that flash good power on the youthfully austere finale where the only reproach is a touch of warmth. Generally speaking, 2020 was a good vintage for Clos de Vougeot and this example is further confirmation of that quality. 2032+

89-91

Corton "Clos de la Vigne Au Saint" Grand Cru

Slightly more prominent wood fights somewhat with the ripe aromas of poached plum, herbal tea, red cherry and plenty of warm earth nuances. The surprisingly supple and not especially dense flavors exude hints of both warmth and bitter pit fruit character on the slightly attenuated finale. 2030+

90

Echezeaux Grand Cru

Moderately generous wood sets off ripe and markedly spicy aromas of black cherry, raspberry and subtle if pretty floral elements. The supple, rich and caressing medium weight flavors are utterly delicious before terminating in a firm if slightly drying and short finale. 2030+

88-90

Gevrey-Chambertin

This is quite ripe yet manages to retain reasonable freshness on the earthy and savage-inflected aromas of cassis and plum liqueur. There is very good vibrancy and detail to the delicious medium weight flavors that exhibit mild warmth on the moderately rustic and persistent finale. This will need at least a few years of patience. 2028+

91

Grands Echezeaux Grand Cru

Very generous wood definitely pushes the overtly spicy aromas of roasted plum, cassis and discreet floral hints to the background. The wood extends to the palate as well on the suave, round and mouth coating big-bodied and powerful flavors that terminate in a more complex and longer finale. This is presently pretty woody and will require time to fully integrate the oak. 2032+

88-90

Pernand-Vergelesses

A slightly fresher nose combines ripe aromas of dark cherry and earth with a whiff of oak. The notably finer if not quite as concentrated medium weight flavors exude a subtle minerality on the persistent finish that is slightly firmer. 2027+

91-93

Pommard-Epenots Premier Cru

Ripe extract of plum is suffused with hints of earth, spice and an interesting wisp of black pepper. There is good richness, size and weight to the unusually refined medium-bodied flavors that possess a bit more mid-palate density, all wrapped in a seductive, lingering and sappy finish. This is very good. 2032+

93

Romanée St. Vivant “Les Quatre Journaux” Grand Cru

Moderate wood and menthol influences set off wonderfully spicy aromas of slightly exotic herbal tea, dark pinot fruit and a whiff of sandalwood. There is excellent intensity to the rich and delicious middle weight flavors that possess a wonderfully refined mouthfeel that carries over to the firm, dusty and balanced finale. This too will need to add depth with time in bottle. 2032+

89-91

Volnay

Touches of oak and menthol are present on the more elegant nose of plum, black cherry and much more discreet earth influence. The sleek, intense and much finer middle weight flavors display a subtle minerality that adds a sense of lift to the nicely persistent finale. This is really quite good and worth considering. 2027+

90-93

Volnay “En Chevreton” Premier Cru

Interesting finer if less concentrated middle weight flavors that exude evident minerality on the focused, detailed and youthfully finish. This is quite firmly structured and a wine that’s going to need at least 5 to 7 years of patience and should reward 10+. 2030+

89-91

Vosne-Romanée

Here there are hints of menthol and wood surrounds the spicy aromas of poached plum, violet and exotic tea. The suave, mouth coating and delicious middle weight flavors culminate in a somber, serious and slightly warm finale. This too should be quite good if allowed at least a few years of bottle aging. 2028+

91-93

Vosne-Romanée “Les Petits Monts” Premier Cru

Really lovely inner mouth perfume to the vibrant, delineated and stony medium-bodied flavors that are noticeably firmer on the youthfully austere, balanced and impressively lengthy finale. Good stuff that should repay extended keeping. 2032+

90-93

Vosne-Romanée “Les Suchots” Premier Cru

Moderate wood stops short of fighting with the very spicy aromas of cassis and dark berry fruit coulis. The velvety and palate soaking middle weight plus flavors possess a seductive texture while offering more volume and power if less minerality on the ever-so-mildly warm but lengthy finale that is similarly structured. 2032+
